

Dear Somerled

Breast Cancer Haven Simulated Game Shoot, Dance and Auction

I really don't know how to thank your company for supporting our 'cancer crusade' with such enthusiasm. I suspect the advertising world would consider 'Redgrave Partners' ejected cartridges, that flashed past our guests eyes, as slightly subliminal. However, I hope the combination of the advert in the brochure, the huge banners and my public vote of thanks helped to spread the word of the new 'brand'. What I do know, having received over 200 emails and letters, was this was a much appreciated, hugely entertaining and financially successful day. I can not thank you enough and if and when my team moves you have my business!

Lets be honest I always swore we would never do it again but I am really glad we did! By contrast the Monsoon Shoot of 2005- May 10th 2008 was an 80-degree Gem and the shoot, which seems to have gained an iconic reputation, went like clockwork. This is no mean feat as this was the largest charity clay shoot ever to be staged in the UK; with 400 competitors, who fired some 80,000 cartridges. At 9.30 am we counted out 20 gleaming VW Touaregs and exactly 10 hours later – bang on schedule – we counted them back home; carrying some euphoric, slightly shell shocked, competitors in the process.

But the shoot is half of the equation because by the evening we were invaded by 800 people coming to a 'Woodstock' style party. Let's be honest this could never be described as desperately sophisticated entertainment but if you put Abba, Queen, Robbie Williams, Rod Stewart and Elvis together then consequence is- Ramsbury Rocks!!

However this was a party with a purpose and this is where we really hit the Jackpot. The auction alone raised £150,000. More to the point we will not be a million miles from raising £250,000. This is more than our wildest dreams and in doing will help literally hundreds of breast cancer patients face their ordeal through the Haven program.

We are incredibly thankful for all the sponsors, donors, and bidders. Collectively, we have made a material difference from this amazingly happy day. The proof is in the attached pictures. So thank you again for your part in this epic day!

Mary Mary thanks
Chi
